ABOUT INSTITUTE

Bundelkhand Institute of Engineering & Technology, Jhansi (Formerly Bundelkhand Engineering College, Jhansi) was established in the year 1986 with an objective to develop Bundelkhand region, a back ward region of state of Uttar Pradesh, through growth of technical education and industrial research. Subsequently, basic infrastructural facilities, on an area encompassing 220 acres of land, were developed. The institute was started initially with two branches, viz., Computer Science & Engineering and Electronics and Instrumentation Engineering with an intake of 30 students in each.

The campus was gradually developed into a neat, clean and green campus adding two additional branches, Mechanical Engineering and Civil Engineering with an intake of 20 students each in 1990. Moving ahead on the path of progress, in 1997, Chemical Engineering with an intake of 30 students was started and in 2000 Information Technology with intake of 40 students was added. In the same year, the intake of Mechanical Engineering and Computer Science & Engineering were raised to 45 and 60 students respectively, and Electronics & Instrumentation Engineering was renamed as Electronics & Communication Engineering and intake was raised to 60. In 2006, the intake of Civil Engineering has been increased to 45. From session 2007-08, a four-year B.Tech. programme in Electrical Engineering with an intake of 60 students has been added to the existing six B.Tech. programmes.

In addition to these undergraduate programmes from session 2005-06 two post graduate programmes in (i) Environmental Engineering and (ii) Construction Technology & Management in Civil Engineering Department and one in Manufacturing Science & Technology in Mechanical Engineering Department with intake of 18 students each, had been started. From the session 2006-07 a M.Tech. Programme in Digital Communication System in Electronics & Communication Engineering Department with intake of 20 students had also been added. From session 2007-08, a two-year management programme leading to M.B.A. degree with intake of 60 students has also been started. From the session 2014-15 three M.Tech. Programmes in Bio-medical Engineering in Electronics & Communication Engineering Department, Thermal Engineering in Mechanical Engineering Department and Energy Science & Technology in Chemical Engineering Department with intake of 18 students in each branch had also been added to the list of P.G. programmes being run by the institute. In this way the total intake of students in the institute including M.Tech. programmes is 528. It is worth to mention that all P.G. programmes are under SFS scheme.
